

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The imaging apparatus comprises plural optical systems having different focal length from that of an imaging element, a transmittance variable element and a reflective optical element, It is constituted so that the focal length is changed by controlling transmittance of the transmittance variable element. Thus, a compact structured and small sized multi-focus imaging apparatus can be provided.